LOCAL HISTORY.

Court Houses and Places of Records.

Incidental Memorandum—By Leonard B. Chapman. Number 87.

IN SEVERAL PARTS—PART SEVEN.

The next persistent effort for removal of the Oxford county court buildings was commenced in 1877, when a whirlwind of excitement swept the county and every voter was interviewed and his name recorded for or against the removal project. The history of Paris alludes to the matter under the date above stated. It says: "The question of moving the county seat to Norway was much agitated during the fall, and was carried before the State Legislature. Norway made a good fight for the much coveted prize, but was defeated."

Again, "A special meeting was called November 24th, to see what action the town would take in relation to the proposed removal of the county buildings. The selectmen were authorized to send an agent or agents to Augusta to oppose the removal."

Norway pledged seventy-five thousand dollars towards a new set of county buildings, should the place be made the shire town of the county. The petitions and remonstrances were about equally divided, each paper containing some twenty-five hundred names.

The matter was finally referred to a committee consisting of David Hammond, Esq., of Bethel Hill, and Hon. John J. Perry, then of the town of Oxford, who removed to Portland—two lawyers, counsel for the petitioners; and George A. Wilson, Esq., and John P. Swasey, Esq., for the remonstrants. The decision of the committee was for the last named.

In 1883 the fight was renewed. The newspapers of the time teemed with communications for and against the project.

In 1892 war paint was again mixed and the clans met by agents at Augusta and an individual, single handed, all over the county, the outcome of which is seen in the very neat appearing set of buildings standing upon elevated ground with attractive, well kept walks, adorned with shrubbery crossing closely clipped lawns, located upon the northern side of the railroad depot at South Paris, a mile from Norway village, the two places being connected by electric cars that pass both ways every thirty minutes. From the front portico, more particularly from the cupola of the main building, the view is captivating—top expansive and richly adorned by the hand of nature for a display of my ability in an attempt to describe the landscape that fills the eye with wonderment when gazed upon; and the whole structure cost the county only about thirty thousand dollars—light, airy, convenient, with accommodating emplacements in each department—a common sense structure compared with the Cumberland county million dollar monstrosity for the plant, and supervision of building the "student architect" received, it is alleged, $50,000.

One item of expense in the Cumberland county structure is, it is alleged, $10,000 for the front doors.

The daylight enters the two main court rooms through small windows placed high up from the floor, obstructed by numerous bars placed over the glass. The space allowed spectators in both rooms is exceedingly small. And there the accused O, my! In cloudy days it is very difficult finding the way about the building so narrow is the light let in from the outside. In the vestibule to the main entrance, where the $10,000 doors appear, at some hours, fifty electric burners are used, the standards for each cluster of five lights costing $400. The yearly running expense of the structure is estimated at $50,000—the total cost of the Oxford county outfit.

The history of Paris devotes ten pages to personal notice of the early lawyers of Paris. There are twenty-one names on the list. One of the number was George Freeman Emery, Esq., born in Paris Nov. 15, 1817. His mother was a daughter of Daniel Stewart, Esq., who died many years of the town and performed much law work in making legal papers.

Emery's life was a very active one as a lawyer, newspaper editor

SUDDEN DEATH OF JOHN F. HAPGOOD.

At His Home in Bethel Last Sunday.

The citizens of Bethel were pained to learn of the death of John Francis Hapgood at his home in Bethel, late Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Hapgood was born in Bethel, the son of the late Frank Hapgood and Mary Hapgood and was nearly 58 years of age. He has always lived on the homestead and has been one of Bethel's industrious farmers. By persistent hard work and strict honesty, which was one of his priceless virtues, he was able to accumulate a good comfortable fortune.

His last sickness was of but a few days. He took a severe cold the middle of last week, pneumonia developed rapidly, and despite the physicians' efforts the end came Sunday afternoon.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Young Hapgood who lived with him, three brothers, George J., of Portland, Frank of Boston, and Fred, who lived on the old homestead with him; also a sister, Mrs. Chas. Lyon of Auburn and two nieces, Mildred W. Hapgood, to whom he has been a most devoted father and Mrs. Henry Parsons.

The funeral will occur at his late home this afternoon conducted by Rev. W. G. Curtis.

and historian. He resided not only in Paris but in Boston, Mass., and Portland, where he departed this life. He prepared a paper he gave the name of "Reminiscences of Bethel and Bar" which appears in the Collections of the Maine Historical Society publications, Series 2, Vol. 8, in which appears sketches of members of the Oxford county bar, comprising thirty pages of printed matter.

In the month of August, 1848, Esquire Emery entered upon the duties as clerk of the U. S. Circuit Court and continued in office till September of 1876—a period of twenty-eight years when he became associated with the management of the Boston Post. What he says in his "Reminiscences" is interesting and confirms what I have written concerning court gatherings in the olden days of court history, as follows:

"When a boy, ten years of age, I would dart in slyly to the court house on Paris Hill, (1827) and seat myself in the gallery, where, without fear of molestation, I could have full view of bench and bar, and observe all that was passing. But before doing this, I waited at the door along side the drummer by whose rub-a-dub the court assembled, until the high sheriff, with a sword at his side, leading the procession of judge or judges, followed by all the members of the bar, each carrying a green colored bag, marched through the open ranks of deputies, with heads erect, and with long topknots at "soldier arms." On reaching the court room, after the judge had seated himself on the bench and the lawyers in their seats, the sheriff, in person, the very picture of an excellent, with a stentorian voice demanded silence, and after the usual proclamations from the court crier, as directed by the clerk, the court proceeded to business.

Of Oxford county court judges in his youthful days, Esquire Emery records the names of Chief Justice Melles, Nathan Weston, William Pitt Preble and Abner K. Paris, all but Weston died in Portland.

Of lawyers he mentions the names of Samuel P. Brown, Buckfield; Henry Farwell, Dixfield; Levi Stewart, Fryeburg; Judah Dimes, Fryeburg; Samuel A. Bradley, Fryeburg; Stephen Chase, Fryeburg; John B. Barrows, Fryeburg; Neal Washburn, Livermore; Levi Whitman, Norway; Stephen Emery, (father to Hon. George F.), Paris; Timothy J. Carter, Paris; Joseph O. Cole, Paris; Peter C. Virgie, Paris; William King Farrier, (the handsomest man of Oxford bar, nephew of Gov. Wm. King), Turner; Beth Sampson, Waterville; Nathaniel Haw, Waterville; Charles Whitman, (brother to Levi), Waterville; James B. Keith, Waterville; Craigie's Mill, Oxford; William Frye, Bethel.

He was a sound lawyer, but quite judicial hearing, tempered by modesty.

CAPT. BLANCHARD TENDERS RESIGNATION.

John A. Hadley Elected to Fill The Vacancy.

About a week ago, Capt. L. W. Blanchard tendered his resignation from the militia owing to the stress of business matters. Capt. Blanchard has been in command of the company ever since it was first organized and has given his utmost care and attention to make it one of the best companies in the State. Much regret is expressed by all the members of the company at the loss of their commander.

On last Monday evening, Company B had election of officers, as it was necessary to fill the place left vacant by the resignation of Capt. Blanchard as soon as possible.

The following officers were elected unanimously, Capt. John A. Hadley; 1st Lieutenant, Herman W. Hanson; Nelson P. Colledge, 2nd Lieutenant. Capt. Hadley is a veteran of the Spanish War and it has been largely through his efforts co-operating with those of Capt. Blanchard that the company has attained its present excellent standing.

A good deal of credit is due the painstaking efforts of Mr. Hadley in helping Company B gain second highest figures of merit in rifle shooting in the State for the past two years.

Capt. Hadley is a young man with excellent military ability and the outlook for Company B for the ensuing year is very bright. The captain carries with him from his lieutenantcy the good will and respect of all his men.

Following the election of officers was inspection of the blue uniforms by the retiring Capt. Blanchard.

His speech and dignified demeanor. Thus Esquire Emery wrote of Bethel's first lawyer.

Miss Sarah Jane Emery, born Nov. 2, 1816, in Paris, the oldest child in the Stephen Emery family, to which Esquire Emery belonged, became the wife of Vice President Hamlin as did Miss Ellen Vesta, his second wife, at the death of her sister, Sarah Jane. Ellen V. was born Sept. 14, 1835. (To be continued.)

THOMAS FITZPATRICK PLACED UNDER BONDS.

Last Friday night, James Wilson, who has been at work on the great dam at Magalloway, arrived in Rumford. He soon met with Thomas Fitzpatrick of this place, with whom he has worked on the Adirondack dam. They became quite friendly, and Monday morning Wilson handed a check for $34 to Fitzpatrick, with the request that he get it cashed for him. Fitzpatrick went out, and failed to hurry back. In the afternoon the case was put in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Harris L. Elliott, and about three o'clock he arrested Fitzpatrick on Exchange street. Fitzpatrick was in an intoxicated condition, and but little of the $34 was on his person. He was arrested, charged with embezzlement of the amount from Wilson, and in court was bound over to the Supreme court in $100 bonds. He obtained bonds.

COURT RUMFORD FALLS, NO. 1861 INDEPENDENT ORDER OF FOM.

Rumford, Maine, Oct. 21, 1910. Resolutions adopted by Court Rumford Falls, No. 1861, Independent Order of Foresters on the death of Companion Ross McDonald. Whereas, the Supreme Ruler of the Universe has, in his infinite wisdom, removed from our ranks, our worthy Companion Ross McDonald, a member of our Court, and Whereas, his gentle disposition and compassionate heart in assisting the weak and oppressed; thereby making such a large circle of friends; a strong advocate to the right and always ready to spread the broad mantle of charity over the shortcomings of a member of this Order, it is only proper and fitting that we record our appreciation of her.

Be It Therefore, Resolved that, by her death, we have lost the membership of a kind and loving Companion, and her family, a model wife and affectionate mother, ever striving to make life happy.

Resolved, That with deep sym-

CHRISTMAS AT THE CONG. CHURCH, BETHEL.

Christmas will be observed at the Congregational Church beginning with a Christmas sermon by the pastor, Sunday morning. There will be special music and it is hoped that a large audience may inspire all who participate. A picnic supper will be served at 6 o'clock in the dining room, Saturday evening, toward which all are invited to contribute and in which all are invited to participate. Following the supper Santa Claus will relieve the Christmas tree of its burden of gifts, and we trust that there will be many. Let all unite to make this Christmas one of joy and gladness to all the little folks and older ones as well.

THE "ANGELIC CHOIR" GIVEN AT RUMFORD.

At the Baptist Church, Rumford, on Sunday afternoon, the cantata entitled, "The Angelic Choir" was given by the united choirs of the Rumford Churches.

The cantata is one of the most beautiful and gives a chance for excellent choruses and also solo work, both of which were rendered by those taking part, excellently. Mr. G. A. Mixer was organist and also has been the director, and much credit is due him for his faithfulness in his work with the choruses. Those having solos were, Mr. McManis, Mr. T. Yor, Mrs. Cowan, Miss Flagg, Mrs. Halse, Miss Jeanie Moore, Miss Staples and Mrs. L. W. Blanchard. Each solo seemed to be especially suited to the one singing it, so excellent was the rendering.

The quartet entitled, "Bethlehem" was a most attractive part and was beautifully sung. The cantata will be given on Christmas day at the Methodist Church at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

At the Universalist Church, Rumford, on Saturday evening at 8:30 there will be a Christmas tree for both young and old. Presents for the tree may be sent to the vestry any time after 2:30, Saturday afternoon; a committee will be there to receive them. Sunday morning at 10:30, services appropriate for Christmas day worship with sermon by the pastor, Elliott Bates Barber, subject, "The Birth of Christ," the following music will be rendered.

Quartet from "The Angelic Choir" "Bethlehem," Carrie B. Adams, Anthem, "While Shepherds watch their flocks by night" Roland Simari, Response, "God so loved the world," George B. Grant.

Elaborate decorations of evergreen will adorn the church. Sunday school at 12:00. The Y. P. C. U. will be omitted. At 8:30, the Sunday school will give a concert, entitled "The King of Glory," assisted by the Young People's Orchestra.

pathy we drap our charter for a period of thirty days, and that these resolutions be spread upon the records of our Court, in her memory and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, one to The Oxford County Citizen and one to the Foresters Magazine at Portland, Me., for publication.

Annie A. McManis, D. J. McCoy, Chas. A. Buford, Committee.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, the Supreme Ruler over all, has again seen fit to remove from our midst one who has always been a faithful and upright member, and whose presence at our meetings will be sadly missed.

Resolved, That the Charter be draped for thirty days. We, the members of Court Rumford Falls, No. 1861, extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family of Brother Peter Christenson in their sad affliction, by the loss of whom they are deprived of a loving husband and a kind and affectionate father.

Resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon our records, a copy sent to the afflicted family, and one printed in The Oxford County Citizen.

A. J. Barrett, Herman McKewen, D. J. McCoy, Committee.

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

Christmas in the Days before the Incarnation.

BISHOP A. CLEVELAND COXE,
D. D.

"David earnestly asked leave of me that he might run to Bethlehem, his city, for there is a yearly sacrifice there for all the family."—1 Samuel xx: 6.

Now plant again the Christmas Tree,
And sing its olden history;
Of Jesse's home, the household feast,
That hailed the promised King and Priest.

Of Jesse's stem,
Whose goings forth were from of old;
Who should be born, as long foretold,
In Bethlehem.

There, Jesse's living shoots among,
Boughs of thick trees and branches hung,
For so with evergreen and palm
Israel adored the great I am,
"Neath fig and viney.

Sent portions that the poor might eat,
Ate of the fat and drank of the sweet,
"Mid box and pine.

So Christmas was ordained of yore
For Jesse's Branch the Root that bore;
And so began in Jesse's home,
The world-wide feast of Christendom;
The feast that brings
Day spring to every wintry door,
And sunshine to the rich and poor,
With healing wings.

Sing then, of that blest House of Bread,
Where Christ was born, whence we are fed,
Where manna to mankind was given,
And angels' food from highest Heaven.

No more that sword
Defends the Tree of Life with flame;
We eat and live, since Jesus came,
The Living Word.

And sing of that sweet Well that sprung
By Bethlehem's gate for old and young;
How David longed, in age, to drink
That well of home, whose mossy brink
Did Christ foretell.
As when, their desert march along,
The tribes of Israel sang the Song:
"Spring up, O Well!"

There too poor Rachel's tomb arose,
Who named her child the Son of Weeds;
But not of Eve's sad legacy
Might Bethlehem the token be,
"Twas Faith's command;
And Jacob's pillar o'er her tomb
Proclaimed the child of Mary's Womb,
And God's right hand.

Tree of our homes and hopes arise
Once more amid the wintry skies,
To gladden age and youth, and give
New songs of joy for all that live.
The hearth to cheer:
While smiles the babe upon the breast,
And children shout: "This day is best
Of all the year."

O Feast of Joy, dear Christmas Feast!
To rich and poor from cares released,
Again thou bringest all good things,
Branches and bread and water-springs
The song to swell;
While all the World delights once more

To drink, as 'twere at Bethlehem's door,
Of David's Well.
"GOD WITH US."
By A. D. WATSON.

The world had long been waiting
The coming of the King,
When one sweet morn in Bethlehem,
Ere birds were on the wing,
The sons of God came singing
Down from the sky's dome,
And mortals heard the message:
Immanuel is come.

Now let the ample standard
Of righteousness, unfurled,
Proclaim to every people
That God is in His world;
Let every form of evil
From earth be put away,
That all may sing rejoicing
"The King is born today."

The bright and solemn glory,
The angel harps glad ring
The strange, sweet song of wonder,
The shrill voices sing—
These in our hearts abide—
The Prince of Peace shall come,
Make our glad lives His temples,
Our happy hearts His home.

KEEPING CHRISTMAS.

It is a good thing to observe Christmas day. . . . It reminds a man to set his own little watch, now and then,
by the great clock of humanity. . . .
But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas day, and that is, keeping Christmas. . . . Are you willing to own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give to life,
. . . . Look about you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness.
Are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas. . . . And if you keep it for a day, why not for always.—Henry Van Dyke.

A Christmas Prayer.

O God, our Father, the shining stars of the cold December sky remind us again of the patient mother and the rock-born manger in lowly Bethlehem where lay cradled Thy Love for the world. In the shadows of the silent stall we stand beside the Child and praise Thee for Thy best great gift to sinful men. Speak to our souls as we wait. Let the sweet, loving, trusting spirit of the Child steal into our lives until it calms all weak and anxious tears and soothes all bitterness and pain. In willing surrender and holy longing let us take the Christ Child into our hearts, that henceforth we may live as He lived, love as He loved, and follow in His footsteps, bringing help to the needy, courage to the weak, comfort to the sorrowing, hope to the downcast, and strength and love to all.
Grant that the spirit of loving kindness may so prevail among us and among all people that those who know Thee not shall be gathered into Thy fold and kingdom.

The Christmas Dinner.

In spite of the fact that the word dyspepsia means literally bad cook, it will not be fair for many to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Christmas Dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea.

It may not be fair for any to do that—let us hope so for the sake of the cook!
The disease dyspepsia indicates a bad stomach, that is a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook, and for a weak stomach there is nothing else equal to Hood's Bismarck. It gives the stomach vigor and tone, cures dyspepsia, creates appetite, and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

Now for Christmas. We have the things men want and appreciate and prize of them. Come, see.

An Agreeable Voice.

"The practical benefit of voice culture to women lies in the power of a beautiful voice to bring into a household," announced Miss Mary S. Thompson at the closing lecture of the New York State Household Economic Association's course.

"It soothes the weary husband when he comes home at night, and is also a lesson to him. A pleasant voice can remove all the friction of life."

"If we Americans could speak with the enunciation of the Englishman, with the smooth elision of the Italian and with the variety of tone which all foreigners have, we would speak the most beautiful English in the world."

In these words was the path of peace laid out for married couples.

"It's a simple matter to sound pleasant," continued Miss Thompson "whether one feels and looks so or not. It is wholly a mechanical matter, the result of training, very simple and within the reach of all." She thinks that voice culture should have an important place in the school.

"The human voice," said she, "more than anything else, interprets the human soul. In school and college curricula it is the last department of education to be considered, and it should be the first. What teaching there is given in the schools emphasizes the use of the lips. Now the upper lip should be almost absolutely inactive. All that we need to use in forming letters and words is the under lip."

The English people, Miss Thompson said, do not use their upper lip, and throughout her talk she rather emphasized the English manner of speech. The chief differences in this way of speaking and our own seemed, according to her, to center around the letter "r."

"The initial 'r' when uttered in England is not a lip sound; the final 'r' is not a guttural, and the English glide into this 'r' as we do not."

"The voice of an Englishman is not altogether pleasant," admitted Miss Thompson. "In the average Englishman it grates on our nerves. It is patronizing in its intonation. Indecision always means something. His sentences always end with a rising tone, and this is said to indicate diplomacy. Americans use a double intonation, and because of this are known outside of their own country as a shifty people. Yet intonation is absolutely necessary and beautiful. The voice of every child has them, but he is often rebuked for using them. Bath or should be encouraged to let his soul shine out in this way."

USEFUL PRESENTS.

"And did you get a number of well-dressed presents, Sam?"

"Oh, yes, sah."

"And did you get any duplicates, Sam?"

"Ded I did sah; I got six razors, sah!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Blessing in Disguise.

"Your wife," remarked the next-door neighbor, "used to play the piano and sing a great deal, but I haven't heard her lately."

"Since the baby came," explained the husband and father, "she has had no time."

"Ah, I see!" rejoined the other, "children are often a blessing in disguise."

THE REASON.

"Your husband looks rather sleepy this morning!"

"Yes; that's because he came home last night as a great last night!"

ONE FOR LEAF YEAR.

Did You Ever Notice?
Oh, how many happy moments, because women cannot talk.
But there are always two sides to every little tale.
It may be women cannot talk or talk to hold things tight.
But what men in creation can pin anything just right?
—Chicago Daily News.

Abnegation.
"You can have all the happiness in the world," said the gentle philosopher, "by being thoroughly unselfish."
"Yes," answered the somewhat skeptical being, "but I am not so selfish as to want all the happiness in the world."
—Washington Star.

About the Size of It.
"No man can tell what he can do till he has tried," remarked the moralist.

"Yes," rejoined the demagogue, "and there are lots of men who can't tell even after they have tried."
—Chicago Daily News.

Wherein They Differ.
"What," queried the young man, "is the difference between praise and flattery?"

"Praise," replied the homegrown philosopher, "may be honest, but flattery never is. That's the answer."
—Chicago Daily News.

A very shy young man had been calling on "the sweetest girl in the world" for many months, but, being bashful, his suit progressed slowly. Finally he decided it was time to start something, so the next time he called she pointed to the rose in the buttonhole of his coat and said:
"I'll give you a kiss for that rose."
A crimson flush spread over his countenance, but the exchange was made after some hesitation on his part. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.
"Why, where are you going?" she asked in surprise.
"To the—er—barist for more roses," he called back from the front door.
—Stetson Ditts.

An Awful Duty.
"Ah," said the great magnate, "you cannot realize what a responsibility money is. I am oppressed by it. I sometimes tremble when I consider the greatness of the task of distributing $100,000,000 properly. You that have never had such a duty to perform can have no conception of the responsibility. It is the most awful thing that can come to any man."
Then he solemnly signed the will in which he provided that all except $10,000 should be left to his family.
—Chicago Record Herald.

And Then Some

But why try to enumerate the products of the printing press? There are posters, and fliers and shipping tags and circular letters and business cards and dance orders and goodness knows what, that we do, and none have been refused a place on the bargain counter.

A Christmas Suggestion.

Some of our good wives have gotten into the habit of giving their husbands, business stationery for a Christmas present, and now and then a good husband conceives of the idea of giving his wife an order of stationery with her initials. There are others who have not yet acquired the habit. "Nar" said. These prices should lead to the habit.

Please bear in mind, that the above prices are genuine in every way. We have no shop-worn stock to dispose of or say seconds that we have purchased for the occasion. On the contrary, the above prices call for first-class work in every detail, and the material advertised is nothing more nor less than the regular grades of stock that we have handled for the past fifteen years. These are strictly cash prices, and orders by mail should contain cash unless sent by our regular customers.

"Strike While the Iron Is Hot,"

for these prices won't hold good indefinitely. Hence, if you are getting low on any particular item would it not be well to replenish the entire outfit? "There is a time in the tide of men's lives," you know—this is the time.

Au revoir.

SANTA CLAUS.

Santa Claus was one of the oldest ideas of Celtic west in pagan times, as he was of the pagan east before. In Christian times he was still regarded with religious reverence, sitting, as he had sat for ages in Egypt and elsewhere, in the arms of his mother. Santa Claus, was in fact, the child Jesus in the middle ages; and throughout that period the festive creed of Germany and all Celtic Europe was that he visited all family dwellings of good Christians on the eve of his anniversary, and brought with him gifts and blessings for the children. This beautiful tradition is still to be found lingering in Germany, though Santa Claus does not seem to be especially connected with it by name.

THE CHRISTMAS ATMOSPHERE.

Getting ready for Christmas makes these weeks in December full of pleasant labors and anticipations. The majority of people are not millionaires. They do not have full purses with which they can go to the shops and buy their Christmas presents without regard to cost. They have a little money, and it requires a good deal of planning, of invention and loving thought, to make it go around. Often, times the money is only enough to buy the raw materials from which patient and skillful fingers will fashion the gifts. If we could look into many a home we should see the children planning some surprise on Christmas morning for fathers and mothers, and the parents in turn consulting how to manage to give the boys and girls what they want. It is this mutual thoughtfulness for others that imparts to these December days a peculiar atmosphere. It will soften the heart of the crustiest old bachelor to go into the Christmas shops and overhear the consultations among purchasers as to what they shall get. Even as you walk along the streets you observe a peculiar light in the eyes of the women shoppers. They do not have it at any other season of the year, except perhaps when they are making ready for a wedding.

CHRISTMAS FOR THE AGED.

Make the Christmas a glad time for the aged. Let each child, even the baby, have its little tribute to bring. Let the dear old heart know that its own gift, however simple, is prized and expected by every one of the household band. Help the trembling hands that may have grown slow to fashion the dainty miracles of needlework. Keep all the secrets of what she is going to give to this, that, or the other friend, so patiently on the shopping jaunts, even if the feet are slow and the eyes take a great deal of time in searching for "just the right thing." Alas for the day when grandchild is no longer prone to "do" for us or to be "done" for! Let us remember how surely that day is coming nearer, and that, to make her thoroughly happy and conscious of how dear and necessary she is, is our only way of begetting the angel to linger in the home. As the trusty joy comes always from the consciousness of power to bless, so the more fully we can convince the aged of the blessing they are to us, through their experience and their presence, and through their angelhood, that has so often been born in their sorrows, the more we shall minister to them. They are often afraid of becoming useless, conscious of falling powers, fearful of being in the way, or casting a shadow on the household mirth. See to it, dear young friends, that on this and all days of the year they be made to know how much we love and need the light of the faded faces, and assure them by every gentle attention that Christmas would not be Christmas without the "angel in the home."

CHRISTMAS AND SANTA CLAUS.

The very name of Christmas seems laden with good things. There is a ring of joy in its tone and one can only associate it with pleasant thoughts and fond remembrances. Christmas to the child is the brightest star in the year's firmament. It is the beacon light on which their little eyes and thoughts are ever fastened. Christmas for the aged seems to have been set near the door of the departing year as a fountain of youth, from which they might draw a fresh supply of health and vigor for the coming year. Christmas and Santa Claus go hand in hand. They are like in one chain. Without Santa Claus there could be no Christmas and certainly at no other time of the year would old Santa be allowed admittance by way of the chimney instead of the door.

Christmas is the same this year, last year and all the years before. It is old, yet it is new. It is a thing of the past, of the present and will be of the future until time immemorial. Who is there among us too old to remember the Christmas of his childhood? Is there one who does not look back upon it as the happiest day of his life?

Even now in our maturer years we cannot help but enthuse at the approach of this merry day. We find enjoyment in watching the happiness of the little ones about us and though we may have passed the three score years and ten, yet the merry Christmas and its fondness of joy seems to kindle anew the flame of life, and carry us back to the days of our childhood.

We are back again at the old home; we once more hang our little stockings—or larger one borrowed for the occasion—conveniently near the fireplace. We reluctantly retire to our bed where sleep has a hard fight to master the excitement attending our expectations. Again it is morning—and all aglow with excitement and almost wild with delight, we rush, half dressed, to gaze upon the bountiful feast which old Santa Claus has left behind. Let us try to make this day the brightest page in childhood's book of memories. Let us fill it so full of happiness that the little ones will ever delight in associating happy thoughts with Christmas of 1910.

PRECIOUS MEANING.

"Except ye become as little children" is fraught with precious meaning. The kingdom of innocence is above all earthly dignities. The crown it wears brings no anguish, entails no fear. Clear-eyed and clean-hearted, the little children of the world stand on the heights nearest heaven. The condescension that brings older persons on the same plane with them is no condescension at all, but rather a coming back to one's own best estate. Of all the days of the year, Christmas is the best on which to "turn back the leaves of life" and lay aside the "wrinkled spoils of age." This day marks the anniversary of the birth of the Prince of babes, the great lover of little children. So, let every parent let go of care for one day and go to the little folks, enter into their sports and claim an interest in all their affairs, of which they have so many of magnitude to-day. Let the store and the office, the court-room and counting-room run themselves, or not run at all—what's the difference. Christmas is eminently the children's day. From the gray of early dawn—it is the only day in winter when their eyes open at that hour—to the latest hour at night, let everything give way to the little autocrats whose tyranny is courted by every man and woman who has any of the essence of love in his breast. Romp and tumble and about with them. When another Christmas comes, some of them will not be here, and those that are will by one year be that much further from the royalty that doth so fitfully become them. Christmas is for the children—let everything bend to their enjoyment.

100 YEARS OLD.

Grandma Sanderson, of DeWitt, Me., Has Lived a Long and Useful Life.

Grandma Sanderson is a wonderful woman. She is in as good health today as ever in her life, although she is over one hundred years old.

In a letter to the Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., she gives the highest credit to Peruna for her excellent health and extreme old age. Read what she says.

Surely the evidence presented by such cases as these ought not only to dispel prejudice against Peruna, but inspire confidence in it.

"I will send you a picture that was taken a few weeks before my hundredth birthday."

"I am a true friend of the Peruna Company. I have derived great benefit from Peruna many times. I can say I regard Peruna a very great medicine. I found out the merit of it a good many years ago."

"A little more than two years ago I contracted a very severe cold, which resulted in a gripe. Owing to the severity of the disease, and my extreme age, my case was considered to be very critical. I employed no doctor, but Peruna was the remedy I used, and to-day my health is as good as it ever was in my life."

"However, I still continue to take Peruna, a spoonful every night before retiring."

Peruna is an ideal tonic for old people. It is a compound of herbal remedies that has been known to the medical profession for many years.

Peruna operates as a tonic by cleansing and invigorating the mucous membranes. This explains why Peruna has become so extensively known as a catarrh remedy. Catarrh is simply a condition of depraved mucous membranes. Peruna changes this depravity into healthful vigor.

A great many old people use Peruna, and would not be deprived of it for any consideration.

People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets.
